UGLY SWEATER DAY!

Ugly Sweater Day, celebrated on the third Friday in December, is a fun and humorous holiday where people don festive sweaters featuring bold, often gaudy designs, embracing the joy and lightheartedness of the holiday season through quirky and over-the-top fashion.

TWO TRUTHS & ONE LIE!

Use your math skills to determine which of the three statements below is a dirty lie! Explain how you made your decision.

Holiday Sweater Sales

- 1) There were more yellow sweaters sold than there were red sweaters sold on Day 4.
- 2) The number of red sweaters sold on Day 7 was double the amount of red sweaters sold on Day 4.
- 3) Blue sweaters were the best-seller for the first four days of sales.
